

Tim Rice, D. Min, LPC
contact tim@homeschoolpsych.com
www.homeschoolpsych.com

Students entering college today will almost certainly take a psychology class. My goal is to introduce them to the study of God’s grandest creation -- the human mind, from a distinctly Christian perspective.

In my presentations, I helps students recognize the worldviews underlying modern psychology’s major theories and schools-of-thought. He shows students that they don’t need to compromise their Christian worldview to study psychology. .

Invite Dr. Rice to speak to your group.

“My goal is to get students to think about psychology and their Christian worldview at the same time. I want them to understand why the Christian worldview is the most logical and meaningful perspective on Psychology.”

Psychology is one of the first classes most students take in college.
Are they prepared?

